At Mammoth, the youthful pitching star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who recently declared he would never again don the uniform of the Smokies City players, has been instructed. It was no secret that Mammoth had been dissatisfied with the Pirates' management for some time. He declared that he wanted to get away from the club and remarked that he would like to join the New York Giants. Up to the time of his announcement, Manager Sullivan forbade any

UNITED STATES ARMY

The importance of meteorology for military service is now fully recognized by army officials following an extraordinary storm and catastrophe on the Alekseyev border.

All through this winter soldiers have been given special instruction in meteorology, and are now learning to make their own independent forecasts. Their commanders and stations have been made out themselves independently without any question.

The command staffs offered approval of the meteorology, the way demonstrated has produced satisfactory results and comparisons with Russian and other countries a splendid result to the meteorological service rendered by the Indians on the Tatar.

The distribution of meteorology and the study of the weather of the troops, the winter about with the army service, through to the Indian meteo-logy is the first and last.

Murphy was to win the title. Murray won in close to two hours of the fastest and of play 3-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1.

The match race as a climax to the winter was comparatively dull because of the appearance of Murray and Church, champions of Australia and Canada, of Arthur H. Johnson of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, William M. Johnston, of San Francisco, accounted for Wabou M. Whelan, of New York, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

The one eastern representative in this was into the semi-finals, B. N. Williams of Philadelphia, beat Douglas B. Waters of New Orleans, the southern champion, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Church and Murray started their match at 4 o'clock. Church, No. 9 in America, had to work himself for a long time to get the service. Across the net his opponent, who has played in but one or two of the more important tournaments this year, was
